Stats on usage of print materials?

After hearing, from some deans/directors, that no patrons want, or use, print documents anymore, I am curious as to how many FDL's keep and share statistics on usage of print materials. We keep stats here at LSU, and they actually show an increase in the usage of our print collection over the last year. I'm thinking of writing an article on this phenomenon and would appreciate getting any stats from other FDL's that would corroborate my findings.
